

APRIL 14— GOING BACK ON THE OFFENSIVE

Los Angeles, blocking the Blue Line trains, April 14.

Photo: revcom.us/Revolution

Madison, Wisconsin protesters block an intersection, April 14.

Photo: Michael P. King/Wisconsin State Journal via AP

The demonstrations against police murder on April 14 marked a new beginning for the struggle against this outrage. This is crucially important, for without mass struggle there can be no progress whatsoever and the powers-that-be will just hammer people into the ground. Further, these demonstrations had important potential significance for revolution—for finally getting free of a society in which murder by police continues to go on daily and more, and people continue to be oppressed more generally... a society in which the lives of Black and other oppressed people are treated as if they do not matter. A14 was a great day, a great beginning—and now the challenge is to learn the lessons and take it further.

STOP MURDER BY POLICE!