

STOP!

Genocidal Persecution,
Mass Incarceration,
Police Brutality and
Murder of Black and Brown People!

Some 200

Joe Arpaio,
Arizona, 2009.

With more than two million people in prison, disproportionately people of color, the U.S. has the largest number of imprisoned people and the highest incarceration rate in the world.

New York City police murder Eric Garner, an unarmed Black man, with a chokehold as he says repeatedly, "I can't breathe," July 17, 2014. Police kill about 1,000 people each year across the U.S., disproportionately Black, Brown, and Native American, many unarmed.
